

michael ekert speaker and coach

"Inspiring others to amplify their performance through Communication, Influence and Leadership"

Michael's approach

Michael Ekert offers clients his unique understanding of human behaviour and high performance gained over 30 years of developing people in business, coaching, management and sales.

Michael shares his invaluable knowledge and experience to pinpoint the necessary self-management skills your team require to be successful in today's world.

He will help your people to gain greater clarity on their goals, increase their productivity, and enhance their communication skills in order to lead, motivate and influence others more effectively.

As an accomplished keynote speaker, MC and facilitator, Michael has an innate ability to connect with people. His story-telling, vibrance and highly infectious energy will captivate your audience and undoubtedly enhance your event.

What others are saying

We recently invited Michael to be a keynote speaker at our virtual employee conference. Michael is exceptional at delivering an engaging message. He was able to relate to all levels within the organisation and kept the employees intrigued during the presentation.

Jessica Eberbach - VP of People & Culture Tricap Residential

Michael was a fantastic facilitator and MC for our company conference and awards night. His ability to 'read the room' and inject the right amount of humour at the right time was perfect.

Evan Camilleri - CEO at Repairhub

We recently engaged Michael as a keynote speaker to talk to our team on productivity, time management and managing workplace stress. Michael's content was on-point and his ideas thought provoking. Michael's approach to engaging with his audience was a clear point of difference.

Michael Robbins - Partner at KPMG Enterprise

Change starts with awareness

- Improve your communication and interpersonal skills to connect better with others and build stronger relationships.
- Develop the personal leadership skills required to maintain focus, be more productive and perform at your best.
- Learn to be a more engaging and empowering leader by understanding your people, their strengths and their needs.
- People follow people. Become the leader who people want to follow, not the position people have to follow.